

AUSTRALIAN TAX REVIEW

Volume 40, Number 2

May 2011

EDITORIAL

Plenty of consultation – but not much progress 67

ARTICLES

Taxing trust income after Bamford’s case – AH Slater QC

This article examines the difficulties in taxing trust income in light of the recent High Court decision in FCT v Bamford. The legislative history of trust taxation in Australia is explored, together with the development of relevant case law. Finally some tentative suggestions are made for possible future reform. 69

Text, context and the interpretation of a “practical business tax” – Michael Wigney SC

This article considers the role of context in the construction of statutes. In particular, it explores the concept of Australia’s goods and services tax (GST) being a “practical business tax” and discusses what role, if any, this notion might have in arriving at a proper construction of the GST Act. 94

The CGT small business concessions: Issues, anomalies and opportunities – Richard Friend

This article discusses several issues relating to the amendments to the capital gains tax small business concessions; in particular, the specific threshold tests for eligibility and the associated definitions of “connected with” and “affiliate”. It also outlines a number of perceived anomalies and opportunities which emerge from the provisions, and concludes with some comments in relation to the fourth of the concessions – the small business rollover. 108

BOOK REVIEW – Philip Burgess

Australia’s Future Tax System: The Prospects After Henry by Chris Evans, Richard Krever and Peter Mellor 138

