THE AUSTRALIAN JUDICIAL SYSTEM: CAUSES FOR DISSATISFACTION

K M Hayne

There are causes for dissatisfaction with the Australian judicial system. Some are unalterable but some causes for dissatisfaction can, and must, provoke change. Time and cost are the chief problems. The courts must respond by changing the way in which litigation is conducted and judges do their work lest the judicial system become irrelevant. .... 32

BARWICK, BANKRUPTCY AND THE HUMAN DIMENSION

Hon Justice Andrew Greenwood

This article is the text of an address given by the Hon Justice Andrew Greenwood in 2016 in opening the International Personal Insolvency Conference held in Australia at the Queensland University of Technology. The theme of the Conference was “The Human Dimension to Bankruptcy”. The address illustrates the theme by reference to the circumstances that confronted Sir Garfield Barwick as a young barrister leading to his bankruptcy in June 1930. The address also comments upon some aspects of the issues relating to proposed changes to bankruptcy laws the subject of discussion at the Conference. .... 48
